Renoir's "La Balancoire" (The Swing), 1876.

A special preview showing of the exhibit "The New Painting: Impressionism 1874-1886" will be held as a fundraiser for the UCSF Hospitals Auxiliary on Tuesday, April 22, from 6 to 10 p.m. at the de Young Museum.

The exhibit will feature a representative cross section of works believed to have been in the original eight impressionist exhibitions held in Paris between 1874 and 1886, including works by such key artists as Monet, Pissarro, Cezanne, Caillebotte, Seurat, Renoir, Degas, Signac and Sisley.

The Impressionists had a difficult time in France during the late 1800s. The public generally disliked their work and the more traditional artists of the day considered them extremely controversial because of their avant-garde style.

This preview showing will benefit patients at the Medical Center at UCSF. The Hospitals Auxiliary has raised money for various hospital programs, including furnishings for the Family Lounge, and free TV and art in every patient room in the Moffitt/Long Hospitals.

Tickets at $35 per person can be purchased at the Auxiliary Office, Room 181D, Moffitt Hospital or by calling x64906. Advance reservations are required by Friday, April 18.

Pat Schindler, docent of the de Young Museum, will hold two special slide/lecture presentations, preceding the exhibit, in Cole Hall on Wednesday, March 26, at noon and on Thursday, March 27, at 5:30 p.m.

Philip R. Lee, PhD, director of the UCSF Institute for Health Policy Studies, has been appointed chair of a new program to help 10 of the largest cities across the country find ways to control the cost of treating AIDS patients.

Mervyn Silverman, a faculty member in the Institute and former San Francisco health department director, will be project director.

The new $17.2 million program, funded by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, will use the AIDS unit at SFGH and other San Francisco AIDS programs as a national model.

The Center for Disease Control has reported that the first 10,000 cases of AIDS across the US have cost $1.4 billion in medical care costs alone—an average of $147,000 per patient. But in San Francisco the cost is around $29,000 per patient.

The reason there is the development of a reasonable, humane and cost-effective approach to AIDS in San Francisco is because of the teamwork between UCSF doctors, nurses and others at SFGH and in the city. They work together to plan treatment programs that emphasize shorter hospital stays and out-of-hospital services.

San Francisco health officials have been able to prevent AIDS from bank-

Reducing the threat to human health from toxic chemicals is the goal of a joint education and research effort by UCSF and UC-Berkeley.

The new effort is part of a University-wide Toxic Substances Research and Teaching Program that will grapple with the broad problems caused by release of toxic substances and hazardous waste into the environment.

UCSF researchers in pharmacology, pharmaceutical chemistry and occupational medicine will collaborate with UC-Berkeley scientists from specialties including toxicology, industrial hygiene and biochemistry, to study how chemicals make their way from the environment into the body and the damage rupting the local health system because they responded to it as if it were a disease, with people who deserved treatment, instead of the victims being just a stigmatized population, said Lee.

Meanwhile, the UCSF AIDS Clinical Research Center has received a $1.65 million grant from the state to help support clinical projects, including studies on drugs that may inhibit the AIDS virus, may prevent infections such as Pneumocystis carinii, and help treat Kaposi's sarcoma and malignant lymphomas. John Ziegler, MD, is center director.

"Shapedown" weight management classes for teenagers that combine diet, exercise and behavioral counseling have begun at the Medical Center at UCSF.

Weekly classes meet on Tuesday or Wednesday evenings in the Ambulatory Care Center. Cost for the series, which includes 12 group meetings for teens, a course workbook and two parent classes, is $125.

Preregistration is required. Program sponsor is the Adolescent Medicine Unit of the Department of Pediatrics, which specializes in the health-care needs of teens. For further information call x62184.

Eugene H. Cordes, PhD, vice president of the Department of Biochemistry, Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories, is the 1986 Troy C. Daniels Lecturer. On campus the week of March 24, he will give three talks in HSW 300:

- Tues., Mar. 25, 11 a.m.: "Control of Androgen Metabolism: Approaches to Therapy for Diseases of the Prostate."
- Wed., Mar. 26, 4 p.m.: "The Regulation of Cholesterol Metabolism: Rational Approaches to Novel Therapy for Atherosclerosis."
- Fri., Mar. 28, 11 a.m.: "Development of Enzyme Inhibitors for the Control of Hypertension."

The Troy C. Daniels Lectureship honors the late dean of the School of Pharmacy, who died February 1985. A major figure in the development of pharmaceutical education, Daniels joined the UCSF faculty in 1929.

Daniels also soon will be honored with a professorship thanks to a $600,000 gift to the School of Pharmacy from Ernest Prien, '34. Daniels was one of Prien's teachers during his three years at UCSF. A community pharmacist in Newman, California until 1957, Prien is the founder of Synergex Corp., a wholesaler of pharmaceutical supplies.

Among the chemicals to be investigated are the pesticide DBCP, which has been found in high levels in drinking water; paraquat, an herbicide used to kill marijuana plants; and nicotine, which enters the bloodstream through smoking.

UC-Berkeley's Stephen Rappaport is director of the UCSF/Berkeley Toxics and Health Effects Program. Neal Castagnoli, professor of chemistry and pharmaceutical chemistry, will direct UCSF's scientific efforts.

The architectural firm chosen to design the new UCSF library—Esherick Homsey Dodge and Davis—has won the American Institute of Architects' 1986 Firm Award. "This firm is remarkable in its continuous collaborative approach to practicing architecture. It is an intellectual and philosophical group, unswayed by current fashion or style, seeking and researching its own expression and its own way: modestly setting aside architectural show in favor of letting each design be itself," the Institute said. They are the first San Francisco firm to receive the award in some 20 years.

Schematic drawings now are completed for the new library, which will be located at Third and Parnassus. An Environmental Impact Report will be available for review in mid-March, with an open public hearing scheduled for April. Construction is expected to start in November 1987, with completion slated for the summer of 1990. For further information call x62911.

Infectious disease expert Robert C. Moellering, Jr., MD, is the 15th annual Henry D. Brainerd Lecturer. The Shields and Warren-Mallinckrodt Professor of Clinical Research and Medicine at Harvard, Moellering will discuss "The Enterococcus: An Important Pathogen in the Antibiotic Era" on Tuesday, March 11, at 11:30 a.m. in Carr Auditorium, SFGH.

The following day, Moellering will discuss "Structural-Functional Relationships: A Key to Solving the Antibiotic Maze" at 11 a.m. in Cole Hall as part of Medicine Grand Rounds.

The lectureship is named for Brainerd, who established the Infectious Disease Laboratory at SFGH. He was chair of the Department of Medicine from 1956 to 1964 and chief of the SFGH Medical Service from 1951 to 1956 and from 1964 to the time of his death in 1979.

UCSF epidemiologist Steven R. Cummings, MD, has been awarded a $6 million grant to lead the first large-scale study designed to predict which women are most at risk of suffering osteoporotic fractures of the hip and forearm.

Funded by both the National Institutes of Aging and Arthritis, the study will seek 9,600 women who are 65 years or older to determine the causes of these fractures. UCSF will be the coordinating center of this five-institution project, but will not seek volunteers.

The program will be located at SFGH in the Clinical Epidemiology Program under Stephen B. Hulley, MD, professor of epidemiology. Michael Nevitt, PhD, assistant professor, medicine, and Institute for Health Policy Studies, will be project director.

Hip fractures are the most serious manifestation of osteoporosis, with over 200,000 occuring in the US every year at a cost of over $6 billion for hospital and long-term care.

This new study may be the first to determine the value of screening tests for osteoporosis. Many hospitals and clinics now offer these tests, but their effectiveness never has been proven.

Second-year UCSF medical students Fred Chang and Deborah Grandsaert have tied for first place in the Dean's Prize for Student Research. Second-place winner is third-year student Errol Lobo.

The three winners will discuss their research findings on Friday, March 14, at 4:30 p.m. in the Millberry Union lounges:

- Chang: "The Loss of Chromosome III Leads to a Change in Specialized Cell Type in Yeast."
- Grandsaert: "Epoxide Derivatives of Arachidonic Acid are Potent Stimulators of Prolactin Secretion."
- Lobo: "Manipulation of Surface Sugar Residues & Chemotaxis of Human Neutrophils."

The campus community is invited to attend. A reception will follow the presentations at 5:30 p.m.

Educational Media Resources has available to the campus community a new computer-based videotape editing system which provides precise, professional editing of videotape in the Umatic 3/4", VHS or Betamax formats.

The new precision editor rapidly locates each frame of the tape and makes edit choices extremely easy to find. This should save faculty and other users significant time in reviewing video material. The system is particularly useful to those consolidating material scattered throughout several videotapes, adding narration to existing tapes, or wishing to improve the overall quality of their video productions.

US Congressman George Miller (D-Contra Costa) has been honored by the Department of Family Health Care Nursing, School of Nursing, and the UCSF Child Care Study Center, for his outstanding record as an advocate for children.

Miller was on campus February 28 to present the School of Nursing's Second Annual Lecture on Child Day Care. The purpose of the lecture is to honor an individual in the Bay Area who has contributed to the area of child day care and to focus attention on this issue.

Chair of the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families, Miller has long been recognized as the House's most prominent advocate for children. His legislation to aid victims of sexual abuse and family violence was signed into law in October 1984.

The UCSF Puppet Therapy Program is looking for volunteers 18 years of age or older who can work with hospitalized children during the day for a minimum of two hours a week.

The program is designed to familiarize pediatric patients with hospital procedures and treatment, thereby relieving their fears and anxieties. Volunteers use hand puppets and miniature hospital equipment in their shows and meet with each child on a one-to-one basis. Volunteers must complete an orientation and training program.

For further information call program director Pat Stich, x63921 or 485-0778.

International Women's Week will be celebrated at UCSF the week of March 3. Sponsored by the UCSF Women's Resource Center, the following free events are scheduled at noon unless otherwise noted:

- Mon., Mar. 3: "Poetry Reading by UCSF Women Poets." Rm. N 729.
- Tues., Mar. 4: "Women & Jobs in the 80s." SF Supervisor Nancy Walker. Cole Hall.
- Wed., Mar. 5: "Poetry Reading by UCSF Women Poets." Rm. C 701.
- Thurs., Mar. 6: "Celebration." Featuring singer Linda Tillery, the Harambee Singers, jazz pianist Sheli Nan, dancer Halifu Osumare and showing of the film One Fine Day. Cole Hall. 5-7 p.m.

For further information call x65836.

The new UCSF Golf Sports Club is sponsoring its first Spring Golf Tournament on Friday, March 21, at the Alameda Municipal Earl Fry Golf Course. Entry fee is students $20, general $25, which will include a golf cart, greens fees, prizes and lunch. Single players and foursomes are welcome. Deadline for entries is Wednesday, March 12. For further information call Freeman Bradley, x61593.

UCSF police officers arrested on February 6 five juveniles in connection with an auto burglary in the Millberry Union garage. Some 40 auto trunks were broken into and burglarized in the garage from February 3 to 6. San Francisco crime experts now are determining if the five arrested youths are responsible for all of the 40 burglaries.

HONORS & AWARDS

Alexander Margulis, professor & chair, radiology; research associate, Laboratory of Radiobiology & Environmental Health: Will receive an honorary Doctor of Philosophy Degree from the Medical College of Wisconsin, May 25.

Carroll Estes, professor & chair, social & behavioral sciences, School of Nursing; Philip Lee, professor, social medicine & director, Institute for Health Policy Studies: Received the Outstanding Services to Older Americans Award from the Over 60 Health Clinic, Inc. at their tenth year anniversary celebration and third annual award banquet Jan. 25 at UC-Berkeley.

Holly Skodol Wilson, professor, mental health & community nursing, School of Nursing. Awarded an American Journal of Nursing Book of the Year Award for her textbook Research in Nursing (Addison-Wesley, Menlo Park, 1985).

Jay A. Levy, professor, medicine; research associate, CRI: Received the Murray Thelin Award from the National Hemophilia Foundation at their meeting in SF, Feb. 5.

Delmont Morrison, clinical professor, psychiatry: Appointed to the California State Department of Education advisory committee to implement a law requiring the state to develop a testing program to screen for learning disabilities in kindergarten children.

Frank Hinman, Jr., clinical professor, urology: Delivered the annual B.A. Thomas Oration at the Philadelphia Urological Society meeting in Jan. He spoke on "Congenital Academia."

Gilbert Barajas, fourth-year student, School of Dentistry: Awarded the $1,000 F. Gene Dixon Student Leadership Award from the Delta Dental Plan of California.

APPOINTMENTS

Marc E. Goldyne: Appointed assistant chief, Department of Dermatology, VAMC. Goldyne came to UCSF in 1978 as an associate professor, dermatology & medicine. A '70 UCSF graduate, Goldyne served his residency at the Mayo Clinic and was a postdoctoral fellow at the Karolinska Institute, Stockholm. Meanwhile, Goldyne has been invited to lecture at the First Alexis Carrel Symposium on Lipid Mediators in Organ Transplantation at Georgetown University Medical Center, Wash., DC, Apr. 8-10.

IN MEMORIAM

Edmund J. Morrissey, '22 graduate, School of Medicine. One of the founding members of the SF Knights of Malta, he was a professor emeritus of clinical surgery at Stanford. He also held staff positions at St. Mary's Hospital, St. Francis Hospital and Seton Medical Center. The family asks that contributions be made to the St. Mary's or St. Francis hospitals.

Lydia Hammaker, specialist, Gastroenterology Research Unit, Department of Medicine. She came to UCSF in 1966 from the University of Chicago with Dean Rudi Schmid, who then was professor of medicine. She had been a specialist since 1980.

UCSF researchers have reported on a program in which treatment was 92 percent effective in eliminating chlamydia infection in mothers and preventing it in their babies.

The UCSF researchers used an antibiotic called erythromycin to treat pregnant women with chlamydia infections who were seen at SFGH for their prenatal medical care. Chlamydia is a sexually transmitted disease which is five times more common than herpes and twice as common as gonorrhea, affecting five percent of pregnant women in the US, or approximately 150,000 people.

Chlamydia infections during pregnancy can cause an eye infection called conjunctivitis in the newborn and can cause chlamydial pneumonia. Approximately 30,000 babies born in the US each year will develop pneumonia because of a chlamydial infection, according to Julius Schacter, PhD, writing in the January 30 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Does excavating the ruins of the Mayan empire or studying the habits of yak in Nepal sound intriguing to you? Research opportunities such as these are available to the general public through the University Research Expeditions Program (UREP).

The program offers a unique opportunity to be part of research expeditions ranging from archeology to zoology with scientists who are in need of field teams.

You need not be an experienced researcher or field worker to join a UREP project. A desire to learn, enthusiasm, adaptability and willingness to share the costs and rewards of scientific discovery are the most important credentials for UREP team members.

For further information and a free expedition catalog contact: University Research Expeditions Program, University of California, Desk K-5, Berkeley, CA 94720 or call 642-6586.
